

Logic Model: Let the Librarians Lead!

TEACH LEAD

Problem Statement: School librarians are increasingly considered obsolete in their resource-poor schools, but rather, they are the richest & most under-utilized resource poised to address the challenging demands that teachers & administrators must manage in order to successfully implement curriculum & instruction shifts that are critical to advancing student learning.

Goal: To work with administrators & librarians, statewide, raising awareness about ways to leverage the leadership potential of Library Media Specialists by changing the perception of school-level LMS & creating opportunity for librarians to evolve as a valued, necessary school resource.

Rationale:

* Librarians are the most under-used & cost-effective source of coaching, PD, & literacy & research integration in the building.

* As the only academic teacher in the building (especially in high school) who sees all students across disciplines & grade levels, the LMS is poised to bring vertical & horizontal continuity & consistency to school-wide instructional practices.
